

Instructions for writing a demand letter

This is a Sample letter- IT IS NOT CONSIDERED LEGAL ADVICE. The letter/emails provided are simple samples of letters to use when you don't know how to proceed with your DV claim. This letter format should not be used if there are other circumstances other than diminished value involved. Other items can include injuries or things that are more complicated than property damage issues. This is simply a format that others have used in presenting their diminished value claims. These letters have editable form fields that allow you to fill out just the areas that are directly related to your personal claim.

If you have other issues, such as loss of wages (need to be provable) or other expenses, then you would want to add those to this letter. You would add them up for a final dollar amount and spell it out with documentation of the amount owed. If you have an attorney, please consult with them prior to sending this to the insurance company. Kri-Tech Solutions is not responsible for any loss of settlement by providing these samples; they are only a means to help you move forward with your diminished value losses.

If you have any questions, please seek legal advice as Kri-Tech Solutions, LLC does not provide legal advice of any kind.
